Each applicant should fully justify on their application how they meet each KSA listed below using AZNG Form 335-2-R to reference the justification.

1. Considerable knowledge of meteorological methods, techniques and practices including weather observing, forecasting, communications, meteorological equipment and support procedures in determining how local and world-wide conditions, reports and observations from various sources affect world-wide weather forecasts, the extent of change, and whether to take action to protect aircraft.
2. Skill in identifying and integrating customer support requirements into the mission execution forecast process and enable the exploitation of environmental information.
3. Skill in providing effective weather briefings to senior staff and DoD customers.
4. Ability to tailor, integrate and exploit environmental information before and during mission execution.
5. Ability to communicate effectively both orally and in writing.
6. Skill in providing supervisory functions such as evaluation of work performance, schedule and assign work, create, coordinate, and implement training programs, setting and adjusting priorities, and giving general direction to subordinates.

SPECIALIZED EXPERIENCE: Must have 36 months experience in operational weather forecasting (RPA-specific experience desired, but not required), education, or training in applying principles and procedures of various meteorological models and forecasting techniques. Experience collecting, analyzing, interpreting, and evaluating numerous meteorological and oceanographic charts, planning, organizing and coordinating work of others.

BRIEF JOB DESCRIPTION: This position is located in an Air National Guard Wing, Reconnaissance Group, Operations Support Squadron (OSS), Weather Flight at Davis-Monthan AFB. The primary purpose of the position is to provide meteorological services, weather observations, and forecasts in support of world-wide Remotely Piloted Aircraft (RPA) to ensure mission effectiveness, resource protection, and flight safety. Collects data and analyzes sources of atmospheric and space environmental information and forecasts, tailors, and communicates weather data that impacts all parts of the mission to include takeoff, route, target, and landing. Provides complex operational weather support to Air Force, Army, Reserve, Guard, and other DoD customers in the form of Mission Execution Forecasts (MEFs). Analyzes climatic regimes, geography, terrain, weather system characteristics, centralized weather products, and indigenous surface and upper air reports to forecast weather conditions for all parts of mission to include takeoff, route, target and landing for locations worldwide. Considers aircraft operating thresholds and hazards applicable to aircraft and aerial delivery systems in advising aircrews on possible impact on takeoff, route, target, and landings. Observes current local and world-wide environmental conditions. Operates atmospheric instruments, weather radar, and meteorological computer workstations. Utilizes satellite imagery and products provided by military, national, and international weather agencies. Uses detailed understanding of the atmosphere and space environment to translate raw data into useful military intelligence information. Identifies, evaluates, and monitors significant weather developments, especially as they present potential impacts on critical flight operations. Discusses the location, intensity, movement, and development potential of weather features. Identifies and evaluates data sources for applicability and quality; operating communications and meteorological equipment to perform automated and interactive point selection; and initiates computer generated graphic sequences to accurately load, evaluate, and display meteorological charts, alphanumeric data and statistical model output. Provides technical guidance and instruction to lower graded full-time technicians and traditional military employees. Solves a variety of meteorological problems with other production personnel. Answers requests for technical information regarding regional products from field meteorologists, DOD customers, and other users. Participates in technical briefings, conferences and meetings as required. Provides weather briefings for local, transient, and other supported aircrews in person, by telephone, or closed circuit electronic system. Modifies forecasts developed by other activities to provide information on exact conditions expected to be encountered by the aircraft for projected timeframe for the area of operation. Observes, encodes, records, disseminates, and evaluates weather observations. Performs other duties as assigned or required by OSS/CC.
